MORE ABOUT IT

What have you concluded to do toward assisting us in starting the new daily?
Now, really, are you in dead hard earnest in your claims of wanting a daily that will give one all a square deal?
If that is what you want and you are disposed to assist to the extent of $5.00, now is the time to pull the bell rope.
Read the pledge on another page of this issue, fill it out and let us have it.
This is a business proposition and it remains for you to act. It is up to you. We stand ready to make good.
We have no time to canvass the field, must depend on you doing your share. Our time is fully occupied.
It is necessary to have 500 of these pledges signed up and in our hands before we order a machine.
Your answer is wanted as soon as you have decided the matter in your mind.
Can we expect to hear from you reasonably soon?

Bell Tones.

The peculiar magic in the tones of a bell is due to its striking not a single note, but a chord, and to obtain the perfect octave entails an immense amount of calculation as well as skill.
The bell caster, therefore, has to be not a mere mechanic, but a highly trained specialist.

GROSBEAK IS OUR FRIEND.

Much Maligned Little Bird Is Active Enemy of Destructive Insects.

The grosbeak is a very much maligned bird and instead of being destructive to crops he is, on the contrary, of great benefit, according to farmers' bulletin 456, just issued by Secretary Wilson. The bulletin states that seven kinds of finches, commonly known as the grosbeak, summer within our boundaries. A majority of these are good friends of the farmer and deserve to be widely known in order that their services may be appreciated.
The grosbeaks are easily distinguished from other finches by their stout form, bright plumage, massive bills and melodious voices. They live largely in agricultural regions and secure most of their food about cultivated lands. They perform invaluable service in destroying many of our worst insect pests.

The rose breasted species is a great destroyer of the potato bug. He breeds over Kansas and the mountains of Tennessee. The investigations of the department show that the bird is fond of green peas, but invariably consumes enough injurious insects to more than offset the damage. He has become famous for his preying on the Colorado potato beetle, and no less than one-tenth of the total food it consumes has been proved to be the potato beetle. It attacks the cucumber beetle. It has proved an active enemy of the Rocky mountain locust during that insect's ruinous invasions, and among the other pest it consumes are the spring and fall cankerworms, orchard and forest tent caterpillars, black-gypsy and brown tail moths, cur-culio, army worm and grasshopper. In fact, it attacks the worst enemies of agriculture.

The cardinal or redbird species ranges from southern Mexico, Lower California and Arizona north to Iowa and Ontario and east to the Atlantic coast. They are permanent residents, spending the summer and winter in the same locality. It has been claimed that they pull sprouting grain, but no evidence of damage to either grain or other crops is shown from over 500 examinations. On the contrary, they do much good. They feed on locusts, periodical cicada, the Colorado potato beetle, the rose chafer, cotton worm, plum or cherry scale, the zebra caterpillar of the cabbage, the cucumber beetles, billbug, locust flea beetle, corn ear worm, cotton cutworm, southern fig eater, codling moth and boll weevil and, in addition, are great consumers of injurious weed seeds.

The black headed grosbeak haunts from southern Mexico and invades North Dakota and Nebraska. It fills the same place in the west that the grosbeak does in the east. It is a foe to the worst pests of horticulture, the scale insect composing a fourth of its food.

The blue grosbeak breeds over the southern two-thirds of the United States and is greatly destructive to weevils, grasshoppers, locusts, caterpil-lars and worms.

The gray grosbeak inhabits Texas, Arizona and New Mexico. It is a consistent enemy of the boll weevil and cotton worm. It also consumes great quantities of harmful weed seeds.

The bulletin in its plea for the protection of the grosbeak says: "Present investigations prove that the services of the grosbeak in destroying insect pests are invaluable. Each kind pays special attention to certain pests which if unchecked would cause enormous loss. Few of our birds are to be credited with more good and with fewer evils than the grosbeak, and none more clearly deserves protection by the practical farmer."

The vest pocket vote decides, they say.
But it won't be "it," you bet.
In the coming times when votes are cast By the stylish suffragette.
—Baltimore American.

ADMIRE PASTOR RUSSELL'S BOOK.

"The Divine Plan of the Ages."

Every One Should Read It.

Atlanta Constitution says—"This wonderful book makes no assertions that are not well sustained by the Scriptures. It is built up stone by stone, and upon every stone is the text, and it becomes a pyramid of God's love, and mercy, and wisdom.
There is nothing in the Bible that the Author denies or doubts, but there are many texts that he throws a flood of light upon that seems to uncover their meaning."

It Comforts the Bereaved.

"Bill Arp" says—"It is impossible to read this book without loving the writer and pondering his wonderful solution of the great mysteries that have troubled us all our lives. There is hardly a family to be found that has not lost some loved one who died outside the church—outside the plan of salvation, and, if Calvinism be true, outside of all hope and inside of eternal torment and despair."

Grain Speculator Is a Curse.

It's the business of the farmer to raise the grain; it's the business of the grain dealer to receive, clean and market the grain; it's the business of the miller to grind the grain, and it's the function of the speculator to buy the surplusage of the 5,000,000,000 bushels of grain produced in this country as a speculation, and any farmer, grain dealer, miller, artisan or professional who attempts to reap a livelihood from fluctuating grain prices is a quack speculator, a counterfeit and a curse.—J. Ralph Pickell, Secretary Council of North American Grain Exchange.

When I go out to take a walk I look so grand and gay I have to put some hatpins on To keep the boys away
—Yonkers Statesman.

Held Together.

"Snail I scrape the walls for you?" inquired the landlord.
"Well, I don't know," replied the tenant. "If you take off that wall paper the old house might fall down."
—Washington Herald.

Safe.

Mother, may I go out to swim?
Yes, my darling daughter.
I know a girl with such a limb Won't go too near the water.

Rise and Fall of a Barber.

Sometimes the barber to the king succeeded in playing an important part in the state by gaining the royal confidence. Most notable instance of this was Peter of Brosse, at first barber and then prime minister to Phillip the Bold of France. He was afterward hanged for his abuse of power.
