BROOKLYN ABERNACLE BIBLE STUDIES OLD TESTAMENT TIMES

AFFICTED, YET A COMFORTER.

Genesis 40, 41—May 4. "God giveth grace to the humble."—1 Peter 5:5

Joseph may well be designated the model young man of Old Testament times. There is a distinction to be made, however, in that he lived before the time of spirit-begetting, and hence was merely a natural man not a Christian. He had inherited a strong faith in the God of Abraham, who had promised that ultimately a blessing should come to all people through Jacob's posterity. Joseph, who was of that family, revered God and sought to live nobly. Whatever he did was with a view to winning God's approval.

Joseph's faithfulness was rewarded by his advancement to the highest position in his master's house—that of steward. But just at the height of his prosperity, calamity came. His master's wife, angered by his steadfastness to principle, falsely accused him and he was cast into prison, charged with a heinous crime. Yet all the while he was innocent, but only God and himself knew it. The adversity had made circumstantial evidence so strong that Joseph's guilt was not questioned. As Shakespeare says, "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned."

Dreams of Butler and Baker.

Joseph had been in prison for years, probably forgotten, and might have continued there indefinitely had not something occurred which brought his case to official notice. When he was twenty-eight years old, two high officials were thrust into prison because the Pharaoh had taken offense at their conduct. One was Pharaoh's secretary and butler, the other was head of his culinary department.

Joseph, who had become general overseer of the prison because of his faithfulness and intelligence, tendered sympathy to these men. When he learned that they were troubled because of impressive dreams, he volunteered interpretations. He told the butler that within three days he would be restored to favor, but informed the baker that within the same time he would be executed. Then, mindful of his own case, Joseph besought the butler, who mbe had encouraged and befriended, to bring it before the proper authorities, that he might if possible be released.

But alas! The butler forgot all about his prisoner friend for two years. Then the subject was brought to his attention by Pharaoh's dream.

which none of the Egyptian wise men could interpret. With apologies for his neglect, the butler told the king the dream experiences of the baker and himself in prison, and of the wonderful young man who had correctly interpreted their dreams.

During those two years, Joseph doubtless waited longingly for some adjustment of his case. We doubt not, that instead of growing faint in respect to faith in God, he all the more earnestly laid hold upon the Lord, realizing that his experiences must be for good, and so they were. When Joseph was thirty years old, Pharaoh sent for him to interpret the dreams.

Pharaoh's Dreams Interpreted.

In the first he saw seven fat cattle, and a little later, seven very lean cattle, which ate up the fat ones, but looked no better. In the second dream he saw a fine stalk of corn spring up, bearing seven full ears, and then another stalk with seven withered ears. The latter swallowed up the former, but looked none the better.

Joseph quickly interpreted the dreams. First, however, he distinctly declared that the interpretation came from God. The two dreams, he said, unadvisedly foreshadowed seven years of great plenty in Egypt, followed by seven years of famine, which would consume the surplus of the plentiful years. He then suggested that an agent be appointed to buy up all surplus grain of the seven years of plenty, and store it for use during the seven years of famine.

Pharaoh quickly acceded, and appointed Joseph himself to the position. Thus Joseph suddenly stepped into a place of highest authority, next to Pharaoh. In the greatest empire of those days, Can we doubt that God's hand was in the matter? We may feel equally sure that the lessons of Joseph's adversity were preparations for his subsequent experiences as Pharaoh's mouthpiece, throughout the kingdom.

We recall the lesson of a week ago—that Joseph's experiences were typical of those of Jesus and the Church. The Bible assures us that the graces of humility and patience are related to love and loyalty. St. Paul reminds us of this when he declares, "If ye be without chastisement, then are ye not sons. For what son is he whom the father chasteneth not?" Hebrews 12:5-6.

It was so with Jesus, with the Apostles, and has been so with Jesus' followers throughout this Gospel Age. Because the Lord loves these noble

M'CABE METHODISTS OUT OF OLD CHURCH SOON

The congregation of McCabe Methodist Church will vacate their present place of worship next week. On Sunday morning the monthly communion service will be held, followed at 12 o'clock by the Sunday school.

The Epworth League will hold their devotional meeting in the evening beginning at 7:15 o'clock. At 8 o'clock the pastor will preach on the subject, "An Ancient Family Quarrel." On Tuesday evening, beginning at 8 o'clock, the congregation will hold their "Mark Up," when reports of cash and pledges for the building fund will be received and recorded. An interesting literary and musical program is being prepared for Tuesday evening.

The prayer meeting on Wednesday evening will be the last service held in the chapel. On Sunday morning, May 11, the congregation will meet in the basement of the new school building at the junction of Concord avenue and Boulevard, which by the permission of the Board of Public Education will continue to be their place of meeting until their new church home is ready.

W. H. Jones, contractor, will soon begin preparing the site at Twenty-second street and Boulevard for the new structure, hoping to have it ready for the congregation in October.

characters. He counts them worthy of trials and testings. These experiences are necessary to qualify them for the glory, honor, immortality and great responsibility to which they are called.

The Value of Adversity.

Jacob's special love for Joseph manifested itself in favoritism, and quite possibly he would have spoiled his son, had not Divine Providence taken him out of his father's control. Many fathers, especially the rich, have made similar mistakes. Hence the sons of the rich are not always a credit to their fathers.

Our Heavenly Father makes no such mistakes. His people are assured that trials and difficulties mark their relationship to God and His loving care over them. This providential career is restricted: "The Lord knoweth them that are His." His special blessings are with His consecrated people—those who have entered into covenant relationship with Him. To those alone belongs the promise that "all things work together for good to them that love God to whom they are called according to His purpose."

Joseph belonged to this line which was in covenant relationship with God. This accounts for God's dealing with him rather than with young men of other families than Abraham's. The Israelites passed through many trying experiences because of being God's people. Many of these they might have escaped, had they not come into covenant relationship with God. But then they would have escaped certain blessings also. And God's blessings always outweigh the adversities which prepare for them.

Jewish and Christian Elections.

The Bible declares that the Jews, and subsequently the Christians, are God's Elect—God's Chosen People—the Seed of Abraham, natural and Spiritual. Both have offers of God's blessings not accorded others, and trying experiences to fit the elect ones for the future glories to which they have been invited.

Nevertheless God has great blessings in store for the non-elect. During the thousand years of Messiah's reign, the elect Church will be Messiah's joint-heirs on the Heavenly plane. Then the Elect from the Hebrews, on the earthly plane, will perform a work in conjunction with the Messiah. Through these two Israel, God's blessings are to be poured out upon all nations, kindreds, peoples and tongues, and earth will become a Paradise. The results will undoubtedly be glorious as the Scriptures declare.

SERVICES AT AVENUE CHURCH.

Tomorrow being the anniversary of the Andrew and Philip Society, the Rev. N. C. Lassiter will preach a special sermon in Delaware Avenue church in the morning, by request, and will take for his theme, "Bringing the World to Christ, One at a Time." Good music will be a feature of the service, with solo by prominent singers. After the service will be the observance of the Lord's Supper.

For about fifteen minutes preceding the evening service at 7:30 o'clock there will be a song service by the congregation and choir. The pastor's theme will be "The Harvest of Wild Oats." A violin solo by Howard T. Crosby, and a baritone solo by William Mask, Jr., will be features of the musical program.

Wednesday evening prayer and praise service will be held. The pastor talking for a few minutes about "Suffering That Led to Christ." Friday evening the Christian Endeavor Society meets, with Miss Edith Downs, leader. Friday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock the Junior Christian Endeavor will meet.

SERVICES IN LUTHERAN CHURCH

"The Desire for a Special Manifestation of God Power" will be the subject of the sermon in Trinity Lutheran Church tomorrow. The evening services will be held at 7:45 o'clock. Preparatory services for the Lord's Supper, which will be celebrated on May 11, will be held on next Wednesday evening.
